English thesis writing support videos now available

SIT library is now offering access to videos and other resources useful for writing academic and English-language papers, aimed at graduate students, undergraduate students, postdoctoral researchers, and faculty who are preparing to write in English.

① EndNote

EndNote is a web-based reference management tool that helps you create bibliographies for your papers. It integrates well with Web of Science, and instructional videos and other resources are available to support your use.

② RefWorks

RefWorks is an online literature management tool that allows you to create reference lists for your papers. Video tutorials and other resources are available to help you get started.

③ English Thesis Grammar Seminar

This seminar helps you avoid common mistakes in English academic writing, with a focus on verb usage, tenses, and word choice.

④ Tips for Writing English Papers

This online seminar series, provided by Clarivate (the provider of Web of Science), offers tips for writing English papers and abstracts.

⑤ How to find papers

This video shows you how to search for academic papers using resources available in our university library.

⑥ Thesis Submission Seminar

This seminar, presented by Wiley, explains how to write academic papers and submit them for publication through video tutorials.
